Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 08 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Some heavy and thundery showers arriving on Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Turning cloudier through the evening and overnight although still with clear spells. Mostly dry, however there is a risk of some showers, which could be heavy and perhaps thundery at times. Another warm night. Minimum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Thursday:
A dry start for most with occasional bright spells. Scattered showers then form by late morning, these will likely turn heavy and thundery at times. Feeling cooler than of late. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Friday remaining unsettled with heavy showers, potentially thundery. Dry with sunny spells on Saturday. Cloudier on Sunday with the odd isolated shower. Feeling fresher.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.